

The $6,000 That 3 Agencies Rejected

The three major agencies which declined money collected for their accounts in the annual Hempstead County United Fund campaigns now have to their credit a total of $5,813.01. The Star learned from an inspection of the United Fund books this morning.

The United Fund office sent out checks as follows, and all checks were returned uncashed:

- American Cancer Fund, first quarter 1961, $362.52; for calendar 1960, $949.19; a total of $1,311.71.
- American Heart Association, first quarter 1961, $181.64; for calendar 1960, $725.35; a total of $906.99.
- National Foundation (Polio), first quarter 1961, $725.04; for calendar 1960, $2,869.27; a total of $3,594.31.

The reason given for the three agencies' rejection of the UF checks was that each wanted to make its own fund solicitation in Hope and Hempstead county. Freedom of action is their privilege, of course.

But this newspaper has the painful duty to point out that what we have here is merely a jurisdictional clash between the regional managers of the three agencies and the united view of this community. The out-of-town managers want individual drives, while the community has settled on a single campaign for all.

If the out-of-town managers have their way then the United Fund will eventually cease and liquidate. Survival of the United Fund obviously depends on its all-inclusiveness.

Your writer is not attempting to judge how or when individual citizens shall make their donations to charity. Some of us, like Roy Anderson, this writer, and others whom the cancer tragedy has come close to, will make gifts for cancer control above and beyond donations to the United Fund.

The purpose of this editorial is merely to point out to the public that it has already given $5,813.01 to the three agencies named; that they have elected to leave that money unclaimed in the treasury of the United Fund — and they are therefore subject to cross-examination by the public as to why they should seek additional funds in separate campaigns until they have claimed and spent the $5,813.01 now on hand.

Trains Must Blow Whistle Inside City

Hope's Board of Directors yesterday repealed an ordinance forbidding train crews to sound a whistle inside the city limits and passed an ordinance ordering whistles and bells to be sounded on all trains.

The Board took this action because of the extreme danger to motorists created by the Missouri Pacific's newly installed gate system.

In other action the group gave approval to plans for extension of sewer system on East 14th and Southland Heights. The plans were submitted by John Hawkins, engineer.

The group approved the appointment of Dale Dunn as civil defense director.

Station Damaged by Fire Here

Brown's Service Station on the Washington road was damaged slightly by fire about 9 o'clock last night. City firemen said the blaze apparently caught from a coal oil stove and damage was limited to a few rafters in the attic.

Light Vote in 6th District Race Seen

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A light vote was expected today as Arkansas' 6th Congressional District selected a successor to Rep. W. F. Norrell of Monticello, who leaves Congress after serving 10 years in Congress.

Norrell's widow is running against four men for the right to fill out the last 18 months of Norrell's term.

At the end of that time, the 6th District probably will be divided up between two other districts in a congressional redistricting action.

Mrs. Norrell wound up a quiet campaign Monday night in a television appearance over Little Rock and El Dorado stations.

She stressed her 22 years of work as her husband's assistant in Congress.

"It's no secret I worked closely with my husband," she said. "Over the years I learned the job. More important, I learned what the people of the 6th District expect of their representative."

John Harris Jones of Pine Bluff also closed his campaign with a television speech Monday night. The other three candidates, M. C. Lewis of Hot Springs, Sam Carson of Benton and James F. Cross of Pine Bluff, wound up with hand-shaking tours.

Jones, who finished third in the 1956 congressional race, lashed at his opponents Monday night for not taking a stand in the matter of retaining a fifth congressman for Arkansas and keeping the 6th district intact.

"You want an effective congressman," he said, "not someone waiting on the corner to step on the most popular bandwagon that comes by."

Beginning with the 1962 election, Arkansas will elect only our representatives instead of six because of a population loss.

Candidates in today's election had only 10 days of campaigning after the special election ticket closed April 8. All are running as independents.

Cross was the only one of the five candidates to endorse a move to refer the 1961 redistricting act, by which the 6th District is to be divided, to a popular vote in 1962.

Referral would cause all congressional candidates to run at large in a statewide race in 1962.

There are 13 counties in the district. Polls opened at 8 a.m. and will close at 6:30 p.m.

Defense Starts Case in Rand Trial

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The defense today began attacking prosecution testimony in the second degree murder trial of Mrs. Virginia Rand.

First witnesses concentrated on disputing the testimony of Carl Allen Gastineau Ark., a Rogers High School senior who said Friday that he had seen Mrs. Rand get out of a car owned by 33-year-old H. V. (Buddy) Clark near the Rand home in July of 1959.

That was about a month before Clark was shot to death in the bedroom of Mrs. Rand's home.

He positively identified Mrs. Rand as the woman he saw while watching from a nearby orchard.

He said it was Clark's car.

Frank Boettcher, owner of the orchard, testified today that he had had trees removed from it in March of 1959, several months before Gastineau allegedly saw Mrs. Rand.

Gastineau had testified that the orchard was full of pear trees.

Two Fayetteville policemen, Earl Lorsch and Wayne Stout, testified about an experiment conducted last Friday night on visibility from the orchard.

Lorsch said that from the point in the orchard where Gastineau had said he stood he was unable to identify persons getting out of a car in front of the Rand home.

Stout gave similar testimony.

The first defense witness was a surveyor, Don L. Kemp of Fayetteville, who testified to the distances involved in the Rand home, the orchard and various lights on the street. He said it was 367 feet from the middle of the orchard to the Rand home.

Scene Where Child Died Inspected

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — A Craighead County Grand Jury investigating the death of 19-month-old Christine Henson last New Year's Eve today inspected the scene where the fatal injury occurred.

The baby's step mother is charged with first degree murder.

After visiting the apartment where Mrs. E. J. Henson was living at the time, the jury went back into closed session.

The jury started its investigation Monday. An attorney said Mrs. Henson would not appear before the jury.

Mrs. Henson claims the child died after falling out of a high chair and down a flight of stairs. Sheriff Lonnie Cooper said his investigation indicated that a fall could not have killed the child.

12-Year Feud Ends in Shooting

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP) — A 12-year feud over a property line culminated Monday in the fatal shooting of 65-year-old Frank Alvin Johnson by a one-armed neighbor, officers said.

The shooting by 71-year-old Hugh King was ruled justifiable homicide on a 9-3 vote of a coroner's jury, but Sheriff Woodrow Davidson and Asst. Prosecutor Howard Mayes said the investigation would continue.

King said Johnson was coming at him with a five-inch hunting knife when he fired. Johnson was struck in the head by the bullet from a .38 caliber pistol.

The shooting occurred on the farm of King and his brother, W. D. King in the nearby Unity community. Witnesses at the inquest said King and Johnson had argued for 12 years over property lines on their adjoining farms.

Monday Johnson and the King brothers met at an old railroad right-of-way which both sides claimed and began arguing.

About four hours later, the Kings returned to the scene and found Johnson's truck blocking a barn.

Hugh King said Johnson came at him after he asked Johnson to move the truck.

President Is Asked to Help Save Plant

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today he has asked President Kennedy to help block any sale of the 64,000-acre Shumaker Naval Ammunition Depot near Camden for scrap.

Faubus said he had received assurances from International Paper Co., high bidder for half of the facility near Camden, in developing the area for industry.

He said the half on which Brown-Roof Inc. was high bidder was still a question mark.

The governor sent a telegram to Kennedy. He has not received a reply yet.

Faubus also showed newsmen a telegram from Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., saying that the Brown-Roof bid would be referred to the Washington office of the General Services Administration for consideration.

Faubus said yesterday he was afraid the depot would be sold for junk and bypassed as a worthy industrial site.

Harding to See Birch Group Film

SEARCY, Ark. (AP)—Clarence Manion, a member of the Council for the John Birch Society, will speak Wednesday at Harding College's 22nd annual freedom forum which opens today.

Manion is a former dean of the University of Notre Dame Law School and founder of the nationally-broadcast Manion Forum.

The conservative John Birch Society has become a controversial issue in recent weeks.

The theme of this year's forum is, "Is It Too Late for the U.S. To Win the War Against Communism?"

A Freedoms Foundation Award will be presented Harding College and its affiliated National Education Program Thursday morning.

The sessions will end Friday morning when Dr. George S. Benson, president of Harding, will make the closing address on "A Challenge to Take Home."

Sponsors said that more than 140 persons from 36 states had signed up for this year's forum for the largest enrollment since it began.

Leaders Are Silent on Soviet Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy discussed the Cuban counterrevolution with Democratic leaders from the Capitol today but withheld immediate public comment on Soviet Premier Khrushchev's new appeal to him to stop the invasion of the island.

Early in the day, Kennedy read news dispatches reporting the gist of Khrushchev's message, the text of the communication, adding nothing essential to the earlier report, was delivered to him shortly after his weekly breakfast session with the Congress members.

Emerging from that meeting, the party leaders would say only that the Cuban situation was discussed, leaving any statement on the nature of the talk to the President.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas said Kennedy "brought us up to now on what the real situation is."

The speaker said the Khrushchev message itself had not been discussed.

"I think it is a serious situation down there," Rayburn said. "I don't know whether it will work out or not. I hope so."

While House press secretary Pierre Salinger said there might be comment on the Soviet message at his regular briefing with newsmen late this morning.

Castro Has Arrested 27 Plotters

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Arrest of 27 persons accused of plotting to assassinate Prime Minister Fidel Castro was announced today by Cuban government radio in a broadcast heard here.

Among those held, the broadcast said, was Maj. Humberto Sori Marin, Castro's first minister of agriculture.

Sori Marin was shot and wounded while trying to flee, the radio broadcast added. He was taken to a hospital.

The others, including nine women, are being held for trial by a revolutionary tribunal.

Among them, it was announced, was an American, Rafael Diaz Oltman.

Castro forces seized a large quantity of "arms from Key West" on making the arrests, the broadcast said. Key West, Fla., is 90 miles from Havana.

Also taken from those arrested were substantial sums of American money, the radio asserted.

The radio also reported that eight terrorists were executed by a firing squad early today in La Cabana prison fortress.

Sori Marin was one of Castro's most trusted lieutenants during the revolt against ousted President Fulgencio Batista. During the fighting in the Sierra Maestra, he helped draft many of Castro's proclamations.

After the successful revolt against Batista, Sori Marin, a lawyer by profession, was named to oversee the first military tribunal. Later, he was named minister of agriculture.

Early in 1960, reports in Miami said, Sori Marin indicated disenchantment with the Castro government and was relegated to a minor position.

Jobless Pay Total Is $2.2 Million

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A record high of $2,208,359 in unemployment insurance benefits was paid to Arkansians in March, the state Employment Security Division said Monday.

And the total does not include the emergency extended coverage which took effect April 10.

During the last week of March, the ESD reported 25,753 unemployed.

In March, 11,994 persons applied for unemployment insurance, a drop of seven per cent from February. But March payments were $196,355 above February payments.

Invaders Go Inland in Cuba; Khrushchev Promises Castro Aid

Bulletins

NEW YORK (AP)—The Cuban Revolutionary Council claimed today that "Cuban freedom fighters in the Matanzas area are being attacked by heavy Soviet tanks and MIG aircraft," destroying large amounts of medical supplies and equipment.

The council, in a communique issued at 2 p.m., asserted however that peasants, workers and militia were joining the anti-Castro invaders and "aiding the rapidly expanding area already liberated."

It said the medical supplies destroyed represented "humanitarian supplies" which were destined for Cuban "freedom fighters who are shedding their blood to overthrow the shackles of communism."

UN Told Russia Will Help Castro

By MAX HARRELSOON

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zorin today laid before the United Nations a warning that the Soviet Union is prepared to support the Cuban regime of Fidel Castro with "all the necessary assistance."

The Soviet deputy foreign minister read to the General Assembly's Political Committee the complete text of a declaration and a letter sent to President Kennedy by Soviet Premier Khrushchev. The warning of military aid was in the declaration.

Chief U.S. Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson told the committee he hoped to read Kennedy's reply later in the day.

The exchange took place at the opening of another tense round of debate on Monday's invasion of Cuba by anti-Castro forces. The public gallery was only partly filled because of the strict screening of visitors.

The Khrushchev letter and its accompanying statement were handed to Edward L. Freers, U.S. charge d'affaires, in Moscow. Zorin read the full text of both to the committee.

The Soviet Union is expected to demand a U.N. denunciation of the United States as an aggressor against Cuba. The demand, however, is expected to get a cold reception from most delegates other than Cuba and the Soviet bloc.

Castro's Days Seem to Be Numbered

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Fidel Castro's days seem numbered as the ruler of Cuba, regardless of the success or failure of invading rebel forces.

If the invasion achieves one of its major objectives—perhaps the most important of all—it will spark a wave of desertions from Castro's forces. This could mean that Cuba might be spared a long fratricidal civil war.

Cuban sources in Miami admit their success may hang on this factor more than any other. For then, in this respect, the invasion has been a calculated gamble.

Should the number of defections from the ranks of Castro's supporters be far less than the rebels anticipate, the invasion could fail.

But this would not necessarily save Fidel himself. He is rapidly becoming a liability to the Communists who now dominate the island, and it is far from improbable that the Communists themselves would feel it expedient to devise some means of getting rid of him.

Castro's loud blundering, which in two years has helped bring the island's economy to confused wreckage, has gotten in the way of the Communists. If the Communists are noted for anything, it is for their knack of organizing the lower of a country and nail-ing it down.

Even if the invasion succeeds, the Russians may find themselves able to live with it. A counter-revolution in Cuba would give them an issue with which to belabor the United States for a long time to come. It could also provide sparks for harassing violence against other Latin American governments. The tone of Moscow's reactions to the invasion news hardly indicated an eagerness to risk World War III to save Fidel.

But the invasion would have a tough time succeeding without the defections upon which the rebels are banking so heavily. They expect these desertions from the ranks of career men in the army, navy and air force. Yet it will require more than that.

Much depends upon how solid is Fidel's hold upon the militia. That is made up of ordinary people, dragged into long hours of marching, drilling and training on their own time. Many resented it, and many may be of a mind to defect. But the militia also has a large number of fanatical young men and women who enjoy playing with guns and shaking their fists at the Yankees.

Russian Calls on Kennedy to Halt Invasion

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Soviet Premier Khrushchev appealed to President Kennedy today to halt the invasion of Cuba by forces seeking to overthrow Khrushchev's old friend Fidel Castro. Khrushchev called the attack a menace to world peace and promised "all necessary assistance" to Castro.

More than 24 hours after the landings in Cuba, the rebels were reported moving inland in an area 90 miles east of Havana.

Prime Minister Castro took personal charge of the attempt to hurl back the invaders, and a Cuban broadcast said counter-revolutionaries had marked him for assassination. The broadcast announced the arrest of 27 persons, including Maj. Humberto Sori Marin, Castro's former minister of agriculture.

A spokesman for the attacking forces claimed wholesale desertions by forces nominally loyal to Castro, including many of the militiamen Castro had forcefully recruited from all ranks of Cuban life. Those are now the people who may spell success or failure for the attempt to topple Castro.

Rebel leaders in the United States asserted the invaders who landed in southwest Las Villas Province Monday had struck halfway across the narrow island to Colon.

The Communists charged the invasion was financed by the United States and supported by U.S. warships and planes from Florida and Central America. The United States has denied supplying the invaders but has expressed sympathy for the forces fighting to overthrow Castro.

Khrushchev said in a message to Kennedy that the Soviet Union wants to decrease world tension "but if others aggravate it, we shall reply in full measure."

A statement by the Soviet government went a step further and warned that the Cuban fighting is "capable of jeopardizing the peaceful life of the U.S.A. itself."

Khrushchev did not mention the rockets he once symbolically promised to bring to Castro's aid.

In Moscow, a mass demonstration was staged in front of the U.S. Embassy by several thousand persons, some of them students at Moscow's Friendship University. They smashed the embassy's windows, splattered the yellow stucco building with green and purple ink and shouted pro-Castro slogans.

Soldiers and mounted police kept the crowd outside the high iron fence in front of the embassy. Most embassy personnel and their families watched from inside. No one was hurt.

With Cuba itself blacked out for all newsmen except those of the Communist bloc, news of the fighting was confined to sketchy claims by the Cuban radio and by anti-Castro spokesmen abroad.

Castro issued a terse communique at 12:55 a.m.

Selection of a jury occupied the morning.

She is charged in the slaying last Nov. 2 of 27-year-old Bobby Jack Lewis at their home near here. Police said she shot him while their four children slept in another room.

Sentence of Death Is Affirmed

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court today affirmed the death sentence of Clarence Stewart Jr., a 23-year-old Negro convicted in the fatal stabbing of a store owner at North Little Rock.

The Supreme Court rejected arguments that Stewart should have been judged insane because he is of below normal intelligence and that the trial court should have quashed the jury panel because the number of Negroes on it was systematically controlled.

The court noted that three psychiatrists testified Stewart was mentally dull but knew right from wrong.

"The fact that one has a mind below normal does not exempt him from punishment for his criminal acts," said the unanimous opinion by Justice J. S. Holt.

Stewart was convicted of first degree murder in the fatal stabbing of William N. Caldwell on Jan. 8, 1959. Caldwell, who was elderly and partially crippled, was stabbed 19 times with a hunting knife.

In a Washington County case, the Supreme Court reversed a Circuit Court decision giving Grace Barnett and others title to property which Carl Nations contended he owned.

The Supreme Court sent the case back and said it should be transferred to Chancery Court for a new trial.

Nations said he bought the property, Prairie Grove lot as tax delinquent in 1941.

Asks Law to Bar Bonds for Plants

WASHINGTON (AP)—An amendment to federal tax law intended to discourage use of municipal bonds to attract new industry was proposed today by Rep. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich.

Griffin said the bill is aimed at about 15 states, mostly in the South, whose laws permit financing local industrial development with tax-exempt municipal bond issues.

The Michigan Republican said he is not against the present law exempting the interest on such bonds from income taxes, as long as the bonds have been issued for a public or government purpose.

However when tax-free municipal bonds are issued to build a new plant for a private industrial corporation, then the law is being abused," Griffin said. "This loophole should be closed."

The bill would prohibit a company from deducting for income tax purposes the rental paid on any industrial plant financed with municipal bonds.

The Norg Division of Borg-Warner Corp. in Muskegon, Mich., in Griffin's district, soon will move into a new bond-financed factory near Fort Smith, Ark., closing the Muskegon operation.

Nations said he bought the property, Prairie Grove lot as tax delinquent in 1941.

Embezzler Is On Probation

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Tommy N. Evans, 36, former Batesville postal clerk, was fined a total of $200 and placed on probation for three years today on two counts of embezzlement from the Batesville post office.

Evans was accused of taking $200 from the post office while employed there.

Federal Judge J. Smith Henley imposed the sentence.

which had employed as many as 1,000 workers.

Griffin said Norg "will occupy a grand new factory financed with $7.5 million of tax-exempt bonds issued by Greenwood, Ark., a suburb of Fort Smith."

He said another Michigan firm, the Scott Valve Manufacturing Co., plans to close its plant in Detroit and move to Blytheville, Ark., under similar financing arrangements. He said this would leave about 140 persons, most of them over 50, unemployed.

Griffin said Michigan law does not permit using municipal bonds for anything but municipal purposes, but states that do "are thriving on the exemption provided by the present federal tax law."

He said a bill similar to his passed the House in 1953 but failed to clear the Senate.

U.S. Will Not Intervene in Cuba Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today the United States will not intervene in Cuba but it is no secret the American people's sympathy is with those fighting against dictatorship.

This was Rusk's news conference reply today to a question about how the United States stands concerning the landings in Cuba by anti-Castro rebels reported to have started today.

The U.S. foreign policy chief said that judging from the reports he has heard there is not any large-scale invasion of Cuba under way. He described the Cuban situation as disorderly and confused with great unrest in all parts of the country against the pro-Communist regime of Fidel Castro.

But what happens in Cuba is for the Cuban people themselves to decide, he said. He noted that what is going on in the Caribbean island is not taking place from American soil.

The Castro regime is accusing the United States of staging the reported invasion. The issue is slated for U.N. debate today.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said today a meeting of the Organization of American States also should be called to consider "any eventualities" which may result from the invasion.

Mansfield, Senate majority leader, told newsmen that the developments this morning posed matters "for the Cubans to meet up with and settle among themselves."

"Despite protests of the Cuban ambassadors to the OAS, I think, in view of all the circumstances, a meeting of that organization should be called to consider any eventualities which may result from the invasion and revolution in that unhappy island."

Injuries Fatal to El Doradoan

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP)—Willie Ed Anderson, a 20-year-old El Dorado Negro, died at a hospital today of injuries suffered here Sunday night in a collision of his automobile and one driven by a Texas minister.

The traffic fatality was the first this year in El Dorado.

The Rev. Martin H. Thomas, 40, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Denton, was injured slightly.

He was held overnight at a hospital and released.

Both drivers were alone. No charges have been filed.

Copter With 11 Aboard Falls

COLD LAKE, Alta. (AP)—A big helicopter with 11 men aboard crashed Monday night in a desolate area 35 miles north of this Canadian air force base in north-eastern Alberta.

The pilot was rescued but the fate of the 10 others in the aircraft—three airmen and seven civilian construction workers—was not known.

The pilot, Flight Lt. J. L. Jeffis of Winnipeg, was reported only slightly injured. Another helicopter was flown to the scene with medical aid.

Urban Dept. Is Asked of Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today asked Congress to create a new Department of Urban Affairs and Housing.

Kennedy said the secretary heading this department "will be in a position to present the nation's housing and metropolitan development needs to the Cabinet and will by virtue of his position provide the necessary leadership in coordinating the many federal programs in these fields."

The President made his request in a letter addressed to Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, the Senate's presiding officer, and House Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., rather than in a formal message.

With his letter he sent a draft of a proposed bill.

Even before the letter reached the Capitol, Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., had introduced a bill in the Senate.

Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., said the President had asked him to be the chief sponsor of the measure on the House side.

In his letter, Kennedy said two problems standing near the top of national priority lists are "preventing the appalling deterioration of many of our country's urban areas" and "insuring the availability of adequate housing for all segments of our population."

He noted that the country's urban areas currently contain 70 per cent of the population and that the figure is constantly growing.

Since the national housing agency was established in 1942, Kennedy said, the activities of the federal government in housing and in working with states and local communities in rebuilding urban areas and preventing their deterioration has increased steadily.

"The importance of this area of federal activity merits recognition by the establishment of the department of urban affairs and housing," Kennedy said.

DOROTHY DIX
Defines Meaning of "Forsake All Others"
By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE
Dear Helen:
You often mention that line in the wedding ceremony, "Forsake all others."
To me that means forsake all other women as far as marital relations are concerned. I see no reason for a son to shun his mother or sisters just because he is married. A daughter-in-law who is disagreeable to her mother-in-law should stop and think, "If it hadn't been for this woman, I wouldn't have my man." If he is a good husband she should be grateful to her mother-in-law. I hope you will print my interpretation so the sweet young wives may be broader-minded about mothers-in-law. —R. B. H.

Dear R. B. H.: I wish I could agree with you entirely on both the points you make, but I don't. "Forsake all others" means to me that my husband comes first —or in the case of a husband, that his wife comes first in his heart and life. If they really love one another, that love should encompass all those close to them, including mothers and sisters. As for your second point, I've known wonderful husbands and wives who had hellions for mothers.

Dear Helen:
I'm only 41 but I have a big problem. A boy in my class has been giving me gifts. He gave me a necklace with my name engraved on it, a heart-shaped box of candy for St. Valentine's Day and a card that said, "To My Sweetheart." He is very attractive but I'm afraid I don't like him that much. My true love is a year-old brewer's daughter from Smithton, Pa., to play the ingenue lead in "Oklahoma" and "Carousel."

But it was her switch to the hardboiled tart of "Elmer Gantry" that won her the Oscar.

"I guess it pays to be bad on the screen," she said.

The bearded Ustinov, who won an Oscar for his portrayal of a gladiator school operator in "Spartacus," flew in from Rome to attend the ceremonies.

Special Oscars were given to Gary Cooper and Stan Laurel among others. Neither was well enough to attend the ceremonies.

"Spartacus" was runnerup to "Apartment" with four Oscars. Besides two acting awards, "Elmer Gantry" also won an Oscar for its writer, Richard Brooks.

The Swedish producer Ingemar Bergman's "The Virgin Spring" was named best foreign language film. Another foreign entry, the Greek comedy, "Never on Sunday," upset four domestic contenders to win the best original song award with a song of the same name.

Lancaster, the hell-firing revivalist of "Elmer Gantry," told a cheering audience: "I want to thank all the members of the Academy who voted for me. And I am so happy that I also want to thank all the members who didn't vote for me."

For Lancaster, 47, the award climaxed a career that had taken him from the New York slums through circus acrobatics to movie stardom.

Miss Jones clutched her Oscar and thanked another Oscar-late Oscar Hammerstein.

It was Hammerstein and Rich and Rodgers who picked the 27-

Editorial About Plant From Camden

(An Editorial)
(Editor's Note: Our opinion of the threatened loss of the industrial potential of the Camden Naval Ordnance Depot was adequately expressed in our editorial published December 22, 1959. It is reproduced below verbatim.)

The future industrial welfare of not only Camden but a widespread section of South Arkansas may be riding to a large degree on the success of the plans evolved at a recent meeting sponsored by the Camden Chamber of Commerce.

At stake is the restoration of some 4,000 good paying industrial jobs formerly held by South Arkansas people in military production. The success of the plan simply means that the $2,000,000,000 industrial plant of the Naval Ammunition Depot will be held intact while a transition from military to civilian employment is taking place, rather than, in a nut-shell, seeing a multi-million dollar facility converted to timber, gravel and junk.

The Camden meeting demonstrated that this is not simply a local problem. The enormity of the situation as it affects the economic welfare of South Arkansas was amply proven by the area attendance which included Congressman Owen Harris, the majority of both Magnolia and El Dorado, state senators and representatives from a 75 mile radius.

boy I have loved for six years straight. He's awful temperamental. Where I used to live, I had lots of friends, but since I've moved here, I haven't had many, especially girl friends. It means a lot to me to have friends. What should I do about this new boy?

Dear L. T.: You're a little young to be talking about boy-friends, especially one you've loved for six years. But some great romances have flowered early. Dante's Beatrice was nine when he first saw her, Juliet, 14 when she met Romeo. Just keep on being yourself and you'll have friends wherever you go. As for the giver of gifts, he doesn't sound like one who discourages easily. Why go steady? You're missing a lot of fun in life if you do.

Dear Helen:
God bless you! I've added your name to my daily prayer list. Thank you for helping me. I didn't know you were so understanding. Intelligence is like a river, the deeper it flows, the less noise it makes. I was —Helpless.

Those city and county officials represented were primarily concerned because they recognize that the many hundreds of their citizens who formerly worked at the plant will again be employed once the shift from military to civilian production is accomplished.

For the plan to have a chance of success, it was the virtually unanimous consensus of the meeting, as well as qualified industrial experts, that the government must cooperate by selling the plant as a unit rather than letting it be decimated by haphazard piece-meal selling for unrelated purposes.

As a unit the installation stands as an ideal unencumbered 64,000 acre industrial park. It is laced with several hundreds of miles of standard gage railroad, paved highways, power, gas and disposal facilities.

Already representatives of several major industrial interests have made detailed inspections of the huge installation and have waxed enthusiastic in discussions with the Chamber of Commerce as to their plans for industrial development. In each case however, their plans have hinged on the land area remaining unencumbered with all improvements in place. To this end the South Arkansas group has received assurance of cooperation from Senator McClellan and Governor Faubus and Congressman Harris. A similar statement from the General Service Administration, the agency that will ultimately be charged with the disposition of NAD, would be of great benefit to the local group and the interested industrialists in the necessary advance planning.

Two hundred million dollars is a startling amount of money and as such presents a rich plum which will be eyed by many seeking to participate in the division. Some of these may well be state agencies, schools and other worthwhile organizations who may see in the plant an immediate opportunity to help alleviate the shortage of funds which perpetually plagues most worthwhile causes. It is our hope that such organizations will resist the temptations for short term advantages in the interest in building a broader base for the industrial economy of South Arkansas.

The need for industrial development in Arkansas is amply demonstrated by the current figures released by the federal census bureau. While the country as a whole is undergoing its greatest population growth in history, only Arkansas and Mississippi are losing population, and the rate of loss in Arkansas is eight times that being experienced in the state of Mississippi. With the revolution in farm practices, Arkansas as an agricultural state must continue to lose population unless the displaced farm workers can be absorbed in continuing industrial development.

The Naval Ammunition Depot intact presents Arkansas in general, and South Arkansas in particular, the greatest single opportunity to take a giant step forward in the desperately needed industrialization of our state. All signs point to success if we can continue to secure active public support in South Arkansas, the aggressive cooperation of the Governor and that of the entire Washington delegation.

All signs point to success if we can continue to secure active public support in South Arkansas, the aggressive cooperation of the Governor and that of the entire Washington delegation.

The need for industrial development in Arkansas is amply demonstrated by the current figures released by the federal census bureau. While the country as a whole is undergoing its greatest population growth in history, only Arkansas and Mississippi are losing population, and the rate of loss in Arkansas is eight times that being experienced in the state of Mississippi. With the revolution in farm practices, Arkansas as an agricultural state must continue to lose population unless the displaced farm workers can be absorbed in continuing industrial development.

The Naval Ammunition Depot intact presents Arkansas in general, and South Arkansas in particular, the greatest single opportunity to take a giant step forward in the desperately needed industrialization of our state. All signs point to success if we can continue to secure active public support in South Arkansas, the aggressive cooperation of the Governor and that of the entire Washington delegation.

"At least I announced you properly. Usually I just yell, 'Hey sport, you wanna see Joe Doakes?'"

CHAPTER I

Maxwell Daney came to the office on a Saturday while I was at my desk dictating a report. I knew his voice and turned off the dictating machine.
"Hello, doll," he greeted Sandy. "Is the boss in?"

Sandy Hollis is not only a discreet, efficient and beautiful secretary; she will be my wife if we can get together on a wedding date. She wants all of her relatives present and she has an excessive number of aunts, uncles, cousins, nieces and nephews, most of them farming people in central Ohio. It seemed to me that they could drop a pitchfork on a moment's notice to attend the wedding of Sandra Hollis, youngest daughter of Homer and Maude, who had left the farm to work in the big city for a dubious character named James T. Bennett in a shady business, but apparently such was not the case. Also, Sandy wanted the wedding to be held at her farm home with a lemonade-and-cake reception on the front lawn afterward with the entire county invited. I wanted a quick, simple ceremony in Cleveland with only a few close relatives and friends present and maybe cocktails and luncheon at the Statler-Hilton. But it didn't really matter. All I wanted was Sandy, and I hoped that she would synchronize her relatives soon.

"Yes," Sandy said. "Just a moment." When she appeared at my door I pretended to be studying some papers.
"Mr. Bennett," Sandy said primly, "can you see Mr. Daney?"

Sandy is a tall, long-legged girl with a generous mouth, a dimple in her chin and a few freckles over her short nose. Her hair is almost the color of a new penny, cut rather short and curling prettily just below her ears. She looked cool and delicious in a lime-green summer dress which revealed her smoothly tanned arms and fine shoulders. Because of her height she usually wore flat shoes, but this morning I noticed that she had on white, high-heeled sandals, with thin straps crisscrossing the toes. I guessed that she had worn the dressier shoes because the office closed at noon on Saturday and we were having lunch at my club.
Max Daney appeared behind Sandy and grinned at me over her head. "What's the big slob doing?" he said to her. "Playing the big shot executive?"
"He gets these spells," Sandy said. "I think he has a hangover."
"She's too flip for a secretary," I said to Max. "I'm thinking of replacing her."
Ignoring me, Sandy said to Max, "At least, I announced you properly. Usually I just yell, 'Hey, sport, you wanna see Joe Doakes?'"
"I can see I really rate around here," Max said, still grinning. He is a tall, dark young man with clear blue eyes beneath heavy black brows. His tanned face was saved from being too handsome by a triangular white scar on his cheek caused by a grenade in Korea.

Maxwell Ellsworth Daney was the only son of the late Maxwell Ellsworth Daney Sr., who had left his wife and son a fortune amassed from the sale of a popular soft drink. Max lived in a big home, a mansion, really, in a remote section on the south shore 20 miles from Cleveland. Since his father's death his mother had travelled extensively and Max Daney really worked at running the business left him by his father. And at 30 he was still a bachelor, in spite of numerous assaults on the Daney fortune by a variety of females.

Sandy spoke to him with mock formality. "Mr. Bennett's conference is over and he will see you now, Mr. Daney."

"Thank you, Miss Hollis," Max said gravely.
Sandy winked at me and returned to her desk.
He shook his head, pushed back his hat and sat in the client's chair. "I'm taking a plane for Pittsburgh and have got to rush along. Our bottling plant there is in trouble. Looks like somebody goofed up the formula for syrup dilution. Millions of bottles with the wrong mix, gad. The distributors and outlets are screaming. Customers threatening to sue." He sighed. "What an opening for the competition."

"Sorry," I grinned at him. His white teeth flashed in a grin. "I didn't come here to cry on your shoulder. I came to invite you to my wedding - you and Sandy."
I sat up straight. "You kidding?"
He shook his head. "Nope. It'll be in the papers tomorrow."
"Well," I said, "well, well. Isn't this kind of sudden?"
"A little," he admitted. "But I've known Laura for over a year."
"Laura?"
"Laura Reynolds. You don't know her. We met in Sarasota." "A week from Monday. I've called Mother. I hope she will come."
"Where is your mother now?" I asked politely.
"Paris. At least, she's supposed to be there now. She was in Madrid all last month." Max stood up. "Jim, will you be best man? And will Sandy be a bridesmaid? Laura's leaving all the details to me." He grinned. "To my secretary, rather. But I wanted to ask you and Sandy myself."
"I'll be honored to stand up for

He turned to the door and called, "Sandy, doll, will you come here a moment, please?"

Sandy appeared. Max told her about the wedding and asked her if she would be a bridesmaid. She was surprised as I had been, and shot me a questioning glance.

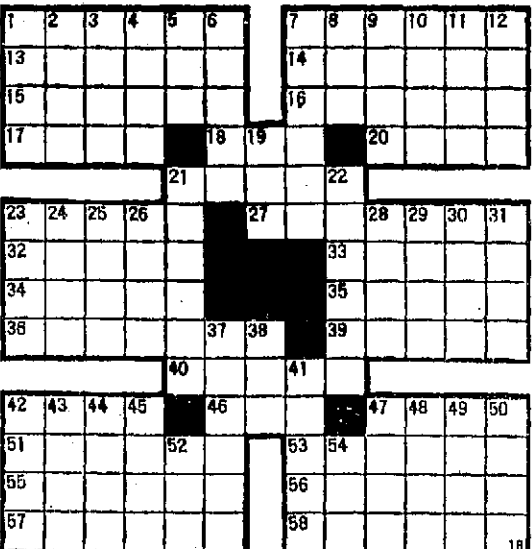

"Go ahead," I told her. "I'm the best man."
Sandy smiled and told Max that she'd be delighted. Max kissed her on the cheek. "I'd like you and Jim to come out on Saturday and stay until after the wedding. The rehearsal is Sunday after noon, with a little

Mantle Bats Yankees to a Victory

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Red Sox center fielder Gary Geiger, who had been sidelined since last July 28 with a collapsed lung, smashed a 400-foot home run Monday to spark the Sox to a 4-3 victory over the Los Angeles Angels.

It was Geiger's third hit in nine times at bat in this infant season, his second for extra bases. The homer came in the seventh inning off reliever Tom Morgan to offset what would have been Los Angeles' tying run in the ninth. In the sixth, Geiger scored the first of two Boston runs, coming in on a single by Jackie Jensen, off loser Ken McBride. A bases loaded walk to Pumpie Green forced home the other run.

Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford, the Damon and Pythias of the Yankees were the whole works as the American League defending champions shut out Kansas City 3-0. Mantle, hitless in his first two games, drove in all the runs with a home run and a single. He had a perfect day with another single and a walk.

Ford, who was blanked on opening day, permitted only three singles, walked four and struck out eight. Only 1,947 fans, smallest Yankee Stadium turnout since Sept. 21, 1954, saw the Yankees get all their runs off Jerry Walker, the young righthander acquired recently by Kansas City from Baltimore.

All other American League clubs were idle and there was only one game in the National. In that one, St. Louis downed the Los Angeles Dodgers 9-5 to climb into a first-place tie with San Francisco.

Tommy Brewer, Red Sox righthander, blanked the Angels until the seventh when doubles by Ted Kluszewski and pinch hitter Steve Bilko sent him to the showers. Fireman Mike Fornieles walked pinch hitter Faye Throneberry and loaded the bases when another pinch hitter, Julio Becquer, reached base after striking out on a wild pitch. Eddie Yost popped out to end the threat. Pinch hitter Albie Pearson's homer in the ninth accounted for the loser's final run.

The Yankees were held to only seven hits, five by Walker before he left for a pinch hitter in the eighth. Walker, 22, in his first appearance since he was traded, was wild, walking six. Two of the walks were issued to Yogi Berra, each resulting in a run.

Spencer Leads Cardinals Over Giants

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Shortstop Daryl Spencer drove in five runs with a single and a grand slam home run Monday night to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 9-5 win over the San Francisco Giants.

The triumph, fourth in six starts for the Redbirds and the only game in the league, lifted the Cardinals into a first place tie with the Giants.

Only two games were played in the American League. The New York Yankees, behind Whitey Ford, shut out Kansas City 3-0 and Boston nipped Los Angeles 3-2 on Gary Geiger's home run. Joe Cunningham shared hitting honors with Spencer. The big outfielder cracked four hits, including his second homer of the season as the Cards scored seven runs in the last two innings to overcome a 4-2 deficit.

Big Joe started the eighth and ninth innings rallies. He doubled to open the eighth and scored on Bill White's single which sent Dodger starter Johnny Podres to the showers. Larry Sherry took over and absorbed the defeat. He yielded the tying run on a single by Stan Musial, and the lead run on Spencer's single.

Cunningham started things off in the ninth. He singled and advanced to third on two out walks to Ken Boyer and Curt Flood. Spencer then unloaded with his grand slammer, his second homer of the campaign. Bob Gibson started for the Cards but the decision went to Bob Miller, who squelched a Dodger rally in the seventh. Miller needed help himself in the ninth from Maury Mc-

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — Six-year-old Keith Mikesell was injured fatally and his mother and younger brother were hurt in a highway accident near here Sunday.

An automobile driven by Mrs. Marjorie B. Mikesell of Fort Worth, Tex., ran off Highway 67 about seven miles south of Arkadelphia and overturned three times.

The mother suffered a back injury, and Kurt was cut on the face. Both were reported in satisfactory condition today.

Pennsylvania Gives Ike Big Welcome

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A brilliant sun and thousands of Pennsylvanians welcomed Dwight D. and Mamie Eisenhower home to Pennsylvania today. It was the state's official welcome for Eisenhower, who left the White House Jan. 20.

The former president, looking tanned and rested after a six-week vacation in California, was obviously touched.

"I wonder whether you know what coming home means to two people who have wandered the world the 45 years of their marriage," he said, a slight breeze fanning wisps of his hair.

"At last my wife and I have a place to call our own—our home," he added. "We are proud to live among you and we hope to live a long time to get to know our new friends and neighbors."

A beautiful crystal vase, about 15 inches tall, was presented to the Eisenhowers on behalf of the citizens of Pennsylvania.

It was faced on three sides with engravings of three presidents closely connected with Pennsylvania — George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Eisenhower.

Gov. David Lawrence, a Democrat, headed state and city officials on the platform.

After the ceremonies, the Eisenhowers left by auto for their farm home at Gettysburg, 35 miles south of Harrisburg.

Another Little Rock paint dealer had challenged the company's status after it was awarded a Highway Department contract for 80,000 gallons of paint last year.

Salary terms were not disclosed.

The Celtics had announced they would let Sharman go to assume the role of coach, but would not agree to his playing for the Jets because of an option clause in his Boston National Basketball Association contract.

Moody Out With a Broken Hand

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Billy Joe Moody, the ex-fulback whom Coach Frank Broyles hopes will replace center Wayne Harris on the 1961 Arkansas Razorback football team, is hampered in spring practice by a broken hand.

Moody suffered the injury earlier this year and still has not recovered. He is unable to snap the ball and Broyles has used him as guard in the first three spring drills.

Broyles said guard and center both play linebacker and Moody is not suffering defensively, but he needs work in the snapping procedure for offense. Moody is the man picked to replace Harris in the all-important monster man spot in Broyles' defense. The monster man is a shifting linebacker, and Harris played it to perfection.

Broyles was not pleased with Monday's workout. "They played like a bunch of YMCA footballers," the coach said. "We're going to need all 17 football practices to make us look like a team."

Three men were added to an injury list of four Monday. The new cripples were guard James Creekmore (knee), tackle Jim Robinson (twisted back) and freshman quarterback Pat Girard (shoulder dislocation).

Already hurt were Tommy Polk, Jerry Lamb, Floyd Watkins and John Cole.

Jesse Branch turned in a fine offensive job for the Red team in Monday's scrimmage. He ripped off gains of 25, 20, 18 and 10 yards. Quarterback Billy Moore did a good job with the run-pass option and also contributed several sizeable gains.

Green team quarterback Chester Miller threw a 35-yard touchdown pass to end Gary Howard on the last play of the scrimmage.

Pitching, Whitey Ford, Yankees — the veteran left-hander doled out three singles and struck out eight as the Yankees shut out the Kansas City Athletics 3-0.
